Burr & Burton Academy and Wagatha's Team up to Benefit TDV

In December of 2007, Wagathas Vermont Made Organic Dog Treats teamed up with Burr & Burton Academy (BBA) to benefit Therapy Dogs of Vermont. The BBA high school students hosted a fund raising event featuring the sale of student-made "Dog Themed" artwork and a fun filled afternoon of four legged activities. The public and their four-legged friends were invited.

During the first semester, BBA students decided on the project, enlisted the help of Wagathas, and set up a marketing plan. They created items to sell at the event and carried out the project to a highly successful completion. Officers and members of Therapy Dogs of Vermont were involved from the beginning and at the event to assist in every aspect.

The day of the event included an agility course, doggie day spa, doggie contests, and a silent auction. Student made fabulous potter & note cards to sell at the event and a great concession stand was set up.

As a result, students learned skills such as decision making, marketing, making craft, sales, and public awareness which they will need and use after they graduate. They also greatly benefited a worthy non-profit organization.
